Summary from 312 KSW starting at 2:02 hours:

Rick has read the whole Coronavirus Blueprint document from the KF which goes over the virus origins and spreading in terms of both modern science and plasma technology science.

Virus Created from the Emotions of Mistreated Animals:

Mr. Keshe said, If we read the entire document the most important part of this report comes in the last 2 paragraphs. It explains what was happening in regards to the treatment of animals and especially wild animals in the "South China Seafood City", which is a large food market. The officials and scientists were talking about what happens psychologically when animals are not treated properly and are put under duress in very stressful conditions. We have seen these viruses in man when he transfers what you call, psychosomatic diseases to himself. When we understand the totality of the disease, then it can teach us a lot of things, and this was put very simply in the last 2 paragraphs of that entire document that we just read. To be able to handle viruses we need to make a conclusion and a summation about the totality. This means that in the current forms and conditions and how we get repetitive cancers and transfer of what I call ?? ?? viruses, is very simple. Scientifically, if we look at the solar system we have a sun in the center and the planetary system around it. In the world of science of understanding the fields, each of these units emits fields, and these fields connect with each other. (He draws a plasma with field lines coming out of it and connecting to other plasmas). However, they connect to each other through a matching field strength, and it doesn't matter in which direction they connect. So what this tells us very clearly is, that these are energy packs which are created by emotions. So in terms of the virus, this tells us that these energy packs were created by the emotions of animals or humans. Interestingly enough, we transfer these energies through our lung and breathing system, which are also the emotional parts of the body of the man. We don't see these viruses attaching to or attacking the muscle tissues or whatever else. In the plasmatic system it is very easy to understand how these viruses can be handled and in a very simple way we can deplete their energies.

Field Strength has to Match between Man and Virus to Transfer:

They say that this virus takes hold, and moves within the structure of a cell and it sits on an Amino Acid (AA) within the cell and starts delivering energies that are not needed, and energies which need to be consumed until the point of a specific condition. This is very much in line with why some people catch this virus and other people don't. It means that those who catch the virus, all have to have a specific strength, common denominator energy level with it. So even if we come in touch with the virus, if the AA in our nose or in our lungs are not of the matching strength to the virus, then we don't catch it. This means that this condition creates a specific matching strength that locks into our AA, and when the strength of the emotion of the animal, matches the strength and the emotion of the man, the virus transfers. This will be an important vital position for man when he travels into space. In space, when we become home sick, then viruses can attach to our emotion of "missing home." In the space condition we'll need to understand all of this, because all kinds of these energy packs will try to attach into our structure. We'll have to do a lot of research in the future on this level. But for now, how can we understand to help in this situation? If you have a lung which is infected by this material, by this energy, it has to have come in through the nasal passage or the mouth. People all over China now are wearing these face masks to try and block entry to the virus. At the same time we see it manifesting with fever, sneezing, or with pneumonia.

Amino Acid is the Passage Way of the Transfer:

The proper way to handle this virus is to transfer out its energy by introducing another plasma to it, a Gans state plasma, because it is itself an energy pack. Do you remember how we transferred the taste and emotion of an orange or banana into a glass of water? We did it by placing Gans materials around the glass and the energy was transferred into the water. We created a condition of energy fields that it could be transferred. Many of you when you made these glasses you said it didn't have the taste, or "I don't taste or feel anything." The reason was because there was one vital element missing, and that was, the glass you were using was too clean. There were no AA's to create the condition of the transfer. From this we learned one of the most fundamental points for the all the KF Knowledge Seekers who want to go out and eliminate this virus, and that is, the existence or presence of the AA in the Gans that you use. When you create a condition of the AA, then you have a field which finds passage, and connects to the virus for the transfer of its energy.

Depleting the Virus through the Gans Water:

When you use the Gans you'll find that the virus very rapidly depletes itself from its energy in the cell, and then the fever, pneumonia, and lung infection will change. You have to make sure that you have the AA in the Gans so it creates a link to the virus. The other point is, because this is emotional related, there is a very clear zinc (Zn) direction and it's connected to the AA. As it connects itself to the muscle or what you call the environment of the muscle tissue of the lung, and can exist in the nasal (?? muscle tissue), then there is the presence and application of Cu. You have to remember that the energy of the virus has to be stronger than the total energy effect of your Gans and AA. In this way the virus will give to the weaker, and deplete itself of its energy. But in a way, part of the energy of the virus, and of the virus in the AA, are still in the cell, but none have the strength to carry on, and therefore, we'll see a rapid reduction in temperature, fever, and clearing of the lung.

Wetting face Masks with Gans Water:

We suggest to our Chinese colleagues, as you use the these face masks to breath, wet them with a mixture of AA of the Zn, plus Cu, and frequently spray them. It depletes the virus from connecting to your AA. The wetted mask puts a barrier between the carrier of the virus and your body. In some cases you can use the Gans water of the CuO to reduce it, and as it is emotional, you can simply wet your hair and hands and that will deplete its emotional strength. It goes back to the ethos of the work of the KF, as this comes from the emotions of the animal it is psychosomatic and it appears itself in the lung of the man and by wetting your head and hair you create a condition. You can also use a small amount of CO2 for neural connection and rapid depletion. You can even use it to spray your house to disinfect it and at the same time make this water available right across the city. It should not take too long to bring the energy of the virus under control, and gradually the sum multiplication of all the Gans's, which you create will reduce the totality, and you will find that the virus will be more or less eradicated.

Space Level Technology without Water:

This is how we are applying it today, in the dimension of the man, but in the future we'll do it at the level of the space technology, because in the space we don't have water. In the new space technology, which has been developed and will be coming into operation in the next few months, we will only create the conditions for the depletion of the virus. It's not like what we saw yesterday, with Chinese using vehicles to spray the streets with all sorts of chemicals. What the Chinese officials have to understand is that, if you can create the conditions of the AA in your mixture, plus some Gans's, you'll see effective reduction in the virus. The Chinese New Year is in the next day or two, so the Chinese KF can give this as a gift to your nation. Produce as much Gans as you can and freely distribute in containers for people to spray their masks and to wash their mouths, and even give it to those who are contaminated. Everybody -- just you do it. The good news is that we'll release documentation to confirm that these materials are non-poisonous and safe. The documentation is for when the KF produces it, in our factories and with our procedures. We are in possession of the non-toxicity reports of this material and of other conditions done within the past few days in China. We have paid a lot of money to confirm it and we can say from what we have, that it is a non-toxic material. The materials that we have tested have shown to be non-poisonous and can be used. At the same time, we have certification for production of Gans material and will endeavor after the Chinese New Year to spread it across China in mass production, so that we can support the Chinese nation. This is a gift from the KF to the government of China, we have already informed the authorities that we have the process.

Our Treatment of Animals and the Virus:

We have to educate ourselves to see how this virus developed and how we may have caused it. What is our role behind it as humans. In a way, we are harvesting the fruit of our own conduct. Maybe the fish brought it to us, or maybe it's the combination of different animals in captivity, where the conditions have been so horrendous that this virus may have come from the collective energy of 2 or 3 animals together. What have we done wrong to them that it comes to us? We have to be very open minded with this technology and understand the totality and not just be captivated by the simplicity to justify our own suffering. We, as humanity have caused it, and we are paying for it. Maybe it was the Americans who have brought it, or the dog has done it, or it comes from the excrement of an animal, or is airborne. We have to consider all of these things. We know it is emotion based, and in so many ways the solution is very simple, but would it teach us something new? Maybe, every now and then, we jump from one virus to another because we haven't learned how we harm others. The virus comes out of the strength of their emotion of the animal, which is connected to the AA of their lives, and through that they connect it to us. One day, if the scientific world would look beyond just who has it, and start to look at the common denominator of the emotion of who gets infected, I am sure they'll find that 99% of all the ones who are infected or catch the disease have more or less the same emotional disease strength as the animal. We saw in one part of the Coronavirus Blueprint Report that it said, the food chain got it from the farmers. But did the emotion spread the same? Did the animals suffer the same as the farmer, or in the hands of the farmer, that they got it? It's the responsibility of the governments to make sure that animal care becomes a pleasure and a comfort for the animal, so that in turn they don't become a menace to man through their emotions. When we travel in the depth of space, we'll come across these energy packs which effect only certain races, because the conditions of emotions, fits to their energy level. These viruses are brought by the condition of the soul not being happy with the presence of its existence. The purpose of these teachings is to enlighten the man about the harm he has done to himself and to those with whom he lives.

The Energy of Emotion and Viruses:

We see these kind of viruses continuously coming out of East Asia where animal husbandry is very rough and due to large populations, everyone is cramped and no one is happy to be there. These viruses usually occur in winter time when the pressure, emotion, and the motion bares the condition of what we call, cold. They are usually single-stranded which means they are mainly connected to the emotion, and that's why the KF Gans technology interacts rapidly. When you have a double-strand, which means you have the totality of both the physicality and the emotion. This is very much what we saw with the pigs virus, it had a higher strength and came through higher temperatures and warmer places. When mutation of the higher level strength occurs, if you bring them to a cold environment, they become deadly. We have seen this with the African Swine Flu in northern Europe and now in China. We understand the totality of the interaction of the fields. This is one of the reasons why antibiotic do not work, because what we call a virus is connected to the emotion. The medical and pharmaceutical worlds have no medicine or materials to treat the energy of the emotion. The energy of the emotion is a dynamic field and the Gans technology is the only answer. The only answer for viruses. We have broken into the world of the science of the universe and can apply a simple technology. In reality we do not need to go into the physical dimension, we only need to solve the problem in the emotional dimension. Mankind is very lucky, that he has not yet had a single strand virus, which goes directly to the emotion. If we make it double-stranded in the background of the single-strand, we'll have what in Europe they called the "Black Plague." Because it has the double strand in the background of the single strand, it's extremely deadly. Maybe this is a warning to our farmers and our governments to start thinking about the care of the animals in a humane way, so that they are happy in their existence, then we won't see anymore viruses. Any virus, SARS or what name you put on it, through the KF Gans technology is resolvable, irrespective of its strength.

Only Gans Technology works for Viruses:

We have antibiotics for everything else, but now we have Gans technology for viruses. This is why our doctors and pharmaceuticals always fail to overcome viruses, because they never understood that viruses are energy packs which attach themselves to the AA and create such a mayhem. But with the technology it is very easy to use different Gans's to simply deplete part of the energy of the virus from the body of the man or of the animal, and you'll find out that, as it is only half linked, the virus will not have the effect, and we'll see virtually within minutes, the rapid reduction in temperature and fever. We're not talking about hours or days here, these energy transfers are from one bucket to another, it's immediate. We need only the connection of the AA, the emotion, and connection with the body of the man, and the physical connection through CO₂, and we'll bring wonders. But make sure the centers are low, and that you don't use too much, so that the energy transfer comes to it. If you get the balance wrong you might even give some energy to the AA, which in return would bring it back, and then it takes that much longer to overcome the infection by transferring the energy.

As I said, it's the responsibility of the KF Knowledge Seekers to very rapidly spread this across China. You might have some success with the AA and the Cu because in that process you might have transferred some energies across, because in your AA when you were producing CuO you may have accidentally made some Zn, and in the process you would have created some CO₂. But to be safe, the recipe is this AA, Zn, Cu, and CO₂. We know that the KS in China have tons of this material amongst themselves. Go and just wet the masks with the Gans water and let the people breath through the masks, wash or wet their face with the water and you will see that they will recover. Go to the hospitals and just let the doctors use it. We'll provide the certificate of non-toxicity on the back of KF Austria. We have the certification that the material is non-toxic and this gives us the security to do this.

In Brazil:

There are reports from the KF family that the virus has arrived in Brazil. You have a competent team in Brazil and you can do the same as what we are doing in China. You can take even a drop of the Gans water, you don't need a huge amount, just a few drops per day on your tongue to keep yourself immune. You can also wet your face mask and drink some of the water to keep yourself immune.

Field Transfer:

All it is, is just the transfer of the energy. Go back and understand the teachings, in the structure of the body you have a pipe going down to where your stomach is, and in that process it passes in between the lungs where the infection is. So when you drink the water, as it passes the lungs, it transfers energy across to it. It's that simple. It's psychosomatic, and as this is connected to the brain, you do the same when you wet your hair, or when you breath in the Gans water. It depletes as many cells as possible and that allows you to recuperate very fast.

No One in China should Die:

No one in China should die of this disease, if the Chinese KF supporters are able to spread this material across China as fast as possible. You all have made Gans's and those of you who haven't, for the sake of your nation do it and give it freely across the nation.

We have given you a gift of knowledge and we are here to guide you. It's the responsibility of you as Knowledge Seekers, to take it out to the streets and to the hospitals and let the doctors test it. Show them that it is just water and let them use it, and see how fast the people recover. We can bring this under control before the Chinese New Year. It all depends on you. We know there is a KF team in the infected area and they already tested the water yesterday. We will provide you with the certification for the waters to keep you safe within the legal structure of the nation. We have informed the university in China who is collaborating with us and they are trying to find the channels through the government. The problem with the Chinese structure is that there are many bureaucracies set within it.

Scientists are Blocking the Technology:

Everybody in China has bought a mask but it is an energy transfer and the masks don't have much use unless you can create a barrier. You can do this with the Gans water which will absorb the energy of the virus. This is what needs to be done and I have been openly consulting with the Chinese government, but one of the biggest problems we have are the scientists who are sitting on the top of the Chinese health structure. They are blocking everything, because they are what you call a specialist, and they see themselves as not have found the cure, so it is better for them, not to put it out because, it doesn't give them any credibility. So it is up to you to take the Gans to the hospitals and to the streets and give it to the people. The application of the plasma technology is the only solution to the virus. Mankind has never had any solution. We have already shown and delivered with Ebola and the African Pig Flu and we have shown it in other cases as well. As One Nation, One Planet, the Chinese nation is part of us. We love the Chinese, we live amongst them, and we feel the pressure. As I wrote this morning to one of the leading people in the Chinese structure, "we stand solid as friends with your nation, and all of the Chinese government in these times of trouble." Deliver as much Gans as you have to the Chinese authorities and make sure that it is free. The KF will cover the costs. We have to respond to the call of the human race.

These flu's are so effective we caught one nearly 2 months ago on our visit to Brazil. Everyone in our group suffered from it, and some are still suffering. We caught a strange and very powerful strand of it with temperature, and even today I still suffer with it.
